JOIN THE ALL HANDS HEALTH NETWORK, A LURIE CHILDREN'S COLLABORATION

All Hands Health Network
A Lurie Children's Collaboration

Who we are

The All Hands Health Network (AHHN) is bringing together a network of local pediatricians, specialists, behavioral health providers, social service and community organizations and institutions to respond to the medical and social needs of children and their families who live in Chicago's Belmont-Cragin and North Austin communities (zip codes 60639 and 60651).

As the lead organization, Ann & Robert H. Lurie Children's Hospital of Chicago, in partnership with the Illinois Department of Healthcare and Family Services (HFS) and many neighborhood organizations, is inviting a broad range of pediatric service providers to join the All Hands Health Network.

Our common goal is to improve outcomes for children by addressing both the clinical and social factors that influence health.

The families you serve might face daunting hurdles when trying to find medical, behavioral and social services for their children. The challenges of navigating the system and accessing help when it is needed contribute to health inequities in youth living in under-resourced communities.

As a partner in the All Hands Health Network, you can rapidly connect them to available resources.

Our integrated network will…

- Offer better communication and coordination between different agencies and providers
- Focus on early identification of children's physical, behavioral and social issues
- Reduce the need for emergency care and hospitalization due to delayed care
- Prevent duplication of services
- Improve the health and well-being of children and their families

Together, we can help children receive the right care, in the right place, at the right time.

Network benefits

Connecting families to services

- A team of community health workers will help connect your patients or clients with needed services in the community.
- A helpline and website will assist families with linkages to community services.
- A web-based platform will allow you to find community resources, share key information with other providers, refer patients or clients to other providers and receive confirmation if and when they access those services.
- Communication technology will allow rapid access Lurie Children's specialists for real-time questions.
- A team of provider network liaisons will train and support staff in using and accessing network services.

Educational opportunities

- Providers will receive support from Lurie Children's specialists for common pediatric conditions that can be treated in the outpatient setting.
- Primary care providers will receive support for managing common pediatric behavioral health conditions in the primary care setting, including medications.
- Behavioral health providers will receive support for managing common pediatric behavioral health conditions in the community setting.

Support in quality improvement

- Structured approach will support improvement of care across the network.
- Clinicians will receive support with translating evidence-based research into practice, utilizing process improvement tools to enhance operations and emphasizing population health.
- Access to a data system will help monitor and benchmark the quality of care and outcomes using a balanced set of metrics.

Participate in innovative payment model

Providers and certain other community organizations who contract with AHHN have the opportunity to participate in an innovative shared savings and quality incentive arrangement. Our alternative payment model presents a unique opportunity for providers to participate in a community-wide program that should improve resource utilization and quality outcomes over time. All providers who serve Medicaid children and youth eligible under the age of 21 who live in the AHHN service area are eligible to participate in the program. Participating providers will be able to maintain their reimbursement contracts with managed care organizations.

Our mission

We believe that communities thrive when their children, youth and families thrive. We aspire to build a groundbreaking, inclusive, connected system of care so that every child in every community may flourish.
